Hearts of Ghana

Access to heart surgery and pacemakers in Western Africa is critically limited. With a high incidence of rheumatic fever, the average age of patients admitted with heart failure secondary to rheumatic heart disease is just 29 years old.

Over the last 10 years,
just 100 heart
operations have been performed in Ghana

Ghana has a population of 28 million people,
and 29% of all
hospital deaths
are due to heart failure

Worldwide
one million people
die annually
as they cannot afford a pacemaker

Each hospital that we visited currently sends about 50
people per year
with complete heart
block home -
due to the cost of pacemakers

A-A HEARTS OF GHANA MISSION:

- Training healthcare professionals
 - Delivering equipment
- = SAVING LIVES

A-A Hearts of Ghana Team have successfully completed ten missions to Ghana in the last six years.

In this time, we have provided crucial equipment and successfully upskilled many local healthcare professionals on heart surgery and pacing.

2019

Led by Dr. Enoch Akowuah, a consultant at James Cooke University Hospital, who has long-lasting ties in Ghana, we led two successful missions to Kumasi and brought a ten member team from Ghana to the UK for a month of training.

2022

With strong links established in Ghana, the heart team of UK consultants are making regular surgery missions to upskill the Ghanaian team. With trips to University of Ghana Medical Centre in Accra and the Komfo Teaching hospital in Kumasi the local team can now perform some heart surgeries independently.

2023

With a well established partnership, the UK team continues to make regular surgery missions to Accra and adds additional training opportunities for local teams.

2024

Two surgical missions were conducted, as well as a 10 member team from Ghana training in the UK for one month.

The Ghanaian cardiovascular team are now independently operating on more complex cases like double and triple valve replacements.

2025

We hope to undertake three heart surgery missions with educational training days to Accra, Ghana in 2025
